We are planning a joint day trip via charter bus along with members of North Penn YMCA to some historic homes in Central New Jersey for May 2012. More information will be available in the February newsletter. One of the homes is the historic Stickley Museum at Craftsman Farms. If you are fascinated by the “Arts and Craft” movement that Frank Lloyd Wright and several other well known designers and architects developed in the early 20th century you’ll find the architecture and the furnishings in Gustav Stickley’s home and museum very interesting. Final details on this trip will be available soon.
